One scalar construction disproves a uniform theorem for every sample size. No amount of repeated numerical refitting proves stability over the unrestricted class. This is a necessary-condition result; it gives no speedup claim and does not say that all unregularized regressions are unstable.